IPEC 501: Foundations of Interprofessional Collaborative Practice

We are looking forward to an informative and productive course, Foundations of Interprofessional Collaborative Practice. As you are eager to get started, below you will find all pertinent information and needed supplies for the start of the course.

DESCRIPTION:

The Foundations of Interprofessional Collaborative Practice provides an opportunity for you to learn about the roles of different health professions working as a team to improve health. You will be assigned to a team with approximately five other students from different health profession programs at VCU. Your team will work and learn together throughout the duration of this semester long course. Faculty from participating schools will serve as facilitators, guiding you through course content.

BLACKBOARD:

Blackboard [(2016Fall) Found Interprofessional Pract (IPEC-501-901-2016Fall)] is the source of all course information. Course announcements, syllabus, schedule, team and facilitator assignments, and other documents can be found here. Even though the course is available to you now, much of the content is not. You will receive an email announcing when relevant course information is available.

ATTENDANCE:

Attendance is mandatory for all sessions and will be verified by having each student sign a hard copy of the course roster.

DATES, TIMES, AND LOCATION:

This Fall, 2016 course is held on Thursdays at 4:00-5:30PM on the MCV Campus from September 1 – December 1, 2016. Location will vary by date. Additional information about subsequent locations will be provided at session 1.
